

How can the spy threat be brought home to America? Now I know.

Last Tuesday, November 3, I attended the Bradenton (Fla.) Kiwanis club meeting as the guest of W. L. Kimball, Jr., attorney of that city. There was special interest in this particular luncheon because a recently returned prisoner of war would talk about conditions in the enemy stockades in Korea.

The POW was Lt. George Shedd, son of Maj. Gen. William E. Shedd, retired, and Mrs. Shedd, who live near Bradenton. This is what he told the home folks, as I quote from memory:

"All during my imprisonment I took every precaution to keep the enemy from learning that I was the son of a high-ranking American officer. I was afraid if they learned my secret they would stop at nothing to break me down and make me sign something that would hurt my family and my country.

"My secret was kept through my long imprisonment—until last spring. But one day I was called up before the enemy officers. They said they had something to tell me.

"They told me my father's full name, and his entire Army record; they said I had a brother in the hardware business, and they gave me his dollar sales last year; in fact, they knew the most intimate details about our family here in Florida.

"They told my mother's full name, and all about her family in Alabama.

"And when they were through I knew, as any of you would have known, that they had private sources of information right here in Bradenton, Fla., and Mobile, Ala."

It was an electric climax, believe me.

It's one thing to talk about spy business in newspaper headlines—but you don't truly understand it until you learn that there are actually people in your own home town feeding specific information into a network of spies that reaches halfway around the globe—until an envelope finally is handed over to the enemy command in Asia.

Pannunjom is a distant word.

But Lt. George Shedd brought it up real close—and menacing.

Three Perish in Gurdon Home Blaze

GURDON, (UP) — All three members of a well-to-do family were burned to death in a fire that destroyed their home here yesterday.

The victims were Mr. and Mrs. Tillar O. Conner, both 51, and their daughter, Betty Jean, 13.

They were trapped in the bedrooms of their one-story home when it burst into flames shortly after 4 a.m. Firemen who rushed to the scene were unaware at first that the victims were inside.

Fire Chief O. E. Martin said the woman and her daughter apparently died in their sleep from suffocation. The father's body was found on the floor near his bed.

Martin said a gas leak apparently was the cause of the fire. Firemen smelled gas fumes in the house, and there was an explosion shortly after they entered the building.

Conner was the owner of the Feeders Supply Co., here. He was a graduate of Arkansas College at Batesville.

Martin estimated damage at $10,000.

Investigating officers said there was no indication of any foul play in connection with the fire.

Italians Stage Protest Stoppage

ROME, (UP) — Italians from Trieste to the toe of the peninsula laid down their tools today in a 10-minute "memorial" work stoppage for the six persons killed by police during Trieste rioting last week.

The suspension was called by all three of Italy's big labor federations, representing nearly all Italian workers. They said only essential public services counted during the period. Many schools in Rome observed 10 minutes silence.

The nationwide demonstration followed a bitter accusation yesterday against the British command in the Trieste civil police by the Italian government. Its report said the bloodshed in the disputed Adriatic city "was caused by riot squad tactics of the police, which were characterized by extreme severity and hasty use of firearms."

Cotton Crop Forecast Up 957,000 Bales

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Agriculture Department, in a semi-final report of the year, today estimated this year's cotton crop at 16,093,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight.

This is 957,000 bales more than last month's forecast of 15,136,000 bales. It compares also with 12,215,000 bales for the ten-year (1942-51) average.

Because of declining exports and accumulation of surplus supplies, Secretary Benson has proclaimed marketing quotas on the 1954 crop designed to limit production to 10 million bales. Growers will vote on the quotas at a referendum Dec. 15. Approval by at least two-thirds of these voting is required to make the controls operative.

The indicated yield per acre and production of cotton, respectively, by states include: Missouri 418 pounds per acre and production 430,000 bales; Arkansas 330 and 1,485,000.

Indian Leader May Have a Solution

By JAMES MORRISSEY

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP) — Lt. Gen. K. S. Timayya returned tonight from a four-hour meeting with the Communist high command amid speculation he has found a new formula to break the prisoner explanation deadlock.

Timayya, chairman of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission, was noncommittal when he returned to Panmunjom from the Communist base camp at Kaesong. But he ordered United Nations interpreters to appear at commission headquarters tomorrow, touching off hopes he has found a way to end the three-day halt in the controversial "come home" talks.

Timayya drove to Kaesong about six miles west of Panmunjom. To meet with North Korean Maj. Gen. Se Sang Cho and Chinese Gen. Ping Yoo-Yu. He dined with them and then returned to his own headquarters.

Speculation that the Timayya-Communist meeting may have solved the explanation deadlock came from the commission's unprecedented request that the U. N.'s Chinese and Korean interpreters report to commission headquarters at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

American Wolf, Two-Legged Kind, Dealt a Crushing Blow by a Famous, Glamorous Model

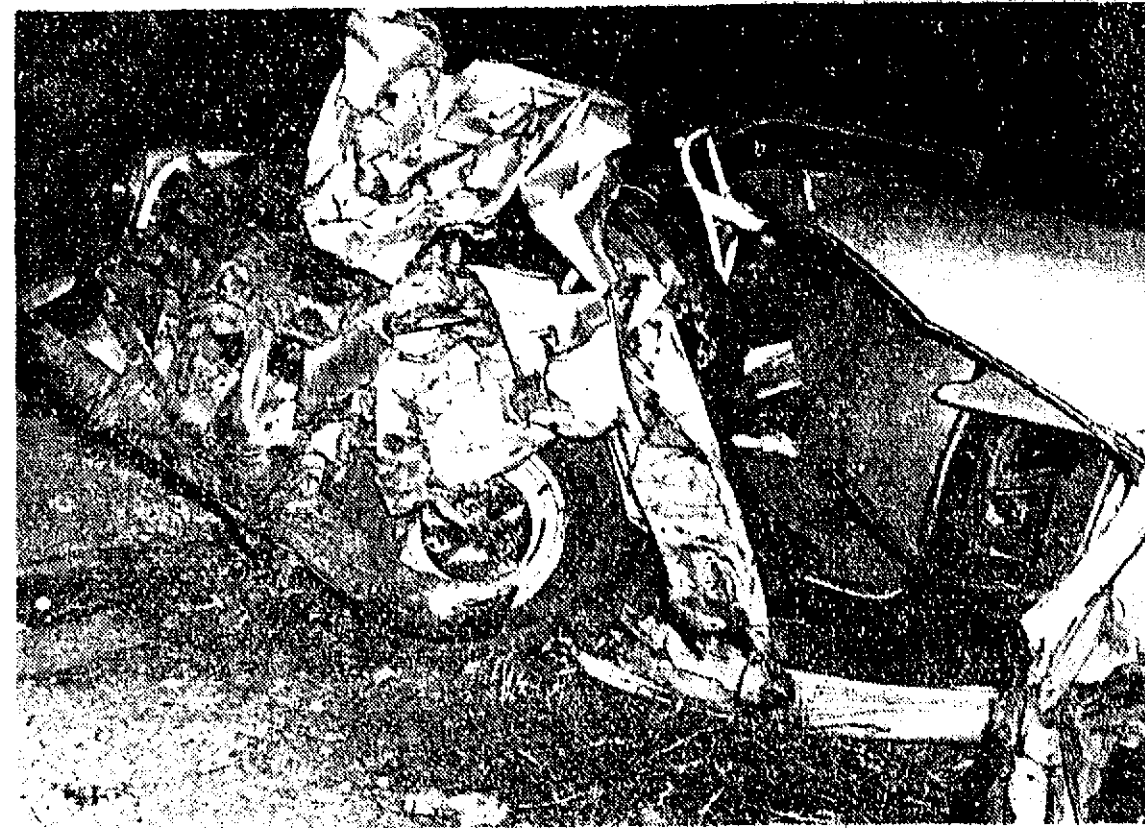

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (UP) Well, men, we might as well start off by firing both barrels:

"The American wolf today is about as menacing as a defanged rabbit, but a European wolf . . . m-m-m-m . . . a girl has to watch her heart when she's out with him."

This crushing verdict on the tameness of the native American wolf, as compared to his foreign cousin, comes from an international student of this form of two-footed nimal life — glamorous Dorian Leigh, the famous model.

Miss Leigh earns $35 dollars an hour that's 700 dollars for a tire, some old 20-hour work week — modeling in Hollywood, New York, London, Paris and Rome. She attracted movie offers as the girl in two recent dramatically colorful lipstick and nail polish ads called

Wilson Calls Sub Deal a Dumb Stunt

WASHINGTON (UP) — Secretary of Defense Wilson said today that after World War II "we were dumb enough to turn over the whole German submarine fleet to the Russians."

Wilson, in a copyrighted interview with the magazine U. S. News and World Report, also said he had been misquoted as saying during Senate hearings on his nomination that "What's good for General Motors is good for the country."

He did not elaborate on his remark about German submarines, nor say how many the Germans had when they surrendered, sked about reports that Russia Rhas the world's second largest navy, Wilson said.

"The first thing I would like to do in my job down here is to work over some of the mistakes of the past."

"When anyone mentions the Russian submarines and the fact that we were dumb enough to turn over the whole German submarine fleet to the Russians, I get a little hot and stay hot for several minutes."

Asked, "Did we agree to do that?" Wilson replied: "Yes. They got the submarines."

Most Powerful Arab Leader Saud, Dies

LONDON (UP) King Ibn Saud, absolute ruler of Saudi Arabia and known as the most powerful Arab since the Prophet Mohammed, died today, a broadcast of the Mexican radio said.

The shrewd and wily monarch became "king" in 1926. But his age was not definitely known. He generally was accepted to be 73 years.

Known as the political architect of Saudi Arabia, he bore the imposing name of Abdul Aziz Ibn Abdulrahman Ibn Faisal Ibn Saud.

His titles were King of Hedjaz, Sultan of Nejd and King of Saudi Arabia.

Ibn Saud, aged and ailing, issued a decree on Oct. 11 of this year naming as premier his eldest son, Crown Prince Saud, in the first cabinet of this oil-wealthy land. It was the first time in his 50-year career as soldier and statesman that he had relinquished any of his authority over the kingdom he carved out of the Arabian desert.

The broadcast announcing his death gave no details.

Mossadegh Proclaims His Innocence

By JOSEPH MAZANDI

TEHRAN, Iran (UP) — Ousted Premier Mohammed Mossadegh, weeping, flailing his arms and protesting his innocence, threatened today to refuse to attend further sessions of a court trying him for treason "even if you cut off my head."

On trial for his life, Mossadegh in the second session of the trial which may bring him a death sentence, challenged the competency of the five-man military court.

Alleging that in a sarcastic offer to commit suicide, Mossadegh shouted to the chief judge:

"May I sacrifice for you my dear life, oh judge general?"

Mossadegh denounced the prosecutor, accused his judges of bias, asserted he is still legal premier of Iran and said only a civil court can properly try him because his alleged crimes are political, not military.

The hearing was adjourned until tomorrow after a tumultuous day during which prosecutor Hossein Azemoudah said to the court:

"He's an egregious actor and thinks this is a stage. Let's end this farce."

He defied the court again and again.

"It looks as if you're the judge, not me, Court President Nasrollah Moghbell said.

The aging former premier, who was overthrown in August by supporters of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, wobbled weakly into the military court wearing the same thread bare overcoat he wore yesterday when the trial opened.

His histrionic presentations made a hectic scene as the day's arguments centered on competence of the court to try him.

First he kept the court waiting for 10 minutes in the glittering hall of mirrors at Saltanabad Barracks while he perused his 100-page defense brief in silence.

"In my frail condition I am even afraid to weep in court, I just offend certain gentlemen," Mossadegh said, bursting into tears.

This was a reference made by Azemoudah that Mossadegh wept and laughed at will like an actor.

Although President Nasrollah Moghbell repeatedly cautioned Mossadegh to restrict his arguments to matters of the court's competence, the old premier pressed his attack on the prosecution, waving his arms and crying and demanding drinks of water.

It was a Thespian repeat performance of the opening day.

Constantly throwing up his hands in dramatic gestures and asking frequently for water, Mossadegh asked the court president:

"Do you intend going on a trip, that you're in such a hurry, because I'm going to keep you here for another two months in this court hearing my case."

Mossadegh calmed when the president adjourned the court until tomorrow.

He said he would refuse to attend court if the question of competence were settled on behalf of the court, "even if you cut off my head."

Russian Demand Not Acceptable, Dulles Declares

WASHINGTON (UP) — Secretary of State Dulles said today Russia's latest note constitutes a blunt demand that free nations "unconditionally surrender their protective principles and practices" before conferring with world Communist leaders.

Dulles said emphatically at a news conference that these Russian conditions for a proposed Big Four foreign ministers' conference are of unacceptable to the United States government.

At the same time, he said the United States, Britain and France would have to give some thought to the possibility of conferences dealing with Germany and Korea without Russia. Dulles did not elaborate on this except to say that West Germany would have to be consulted first.

Dulles spoke out about Russia's latest note, sent Nov. 3, in a prepared statement.

Ex-Carnival Stripper Held in Kidnaping

HUGO, Okla. (UP) — A 17-year-old former carnival stripper turned arrested today and quickly arraigned on a federal charge of kidnaping a 5-month-old baby boy while baby, sitting with him, at Evansville, Ind.

FBI agents arrested Mrs. Tommie Dene Doughty and recovered the baby, Richard Le Stammer, alive.

They were found at the home of Mrs. Doughty's father, Hubert M. Mason, north of Bokchita in Red River Valley farm country.

Mrs. Doughty was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner D. A. Stovall six hours after she was captured. Stovall placed her under $20,000 bond and she was turned over to U. S. Deputy Marshal W. A. White for removal to Muskogee federal jail.

"In a way I'm glad it's over, but I still wish I could have kept him for a few more days," Mrs. Doughty told The Associated Press in Oklahoma City by telephone.

She was permitted to talk on the phone after her arraignment and she haltingly answered questions about her trip by bus and hitchhiking since she took the baby Friday night.

"He is just the age of the one I lost," Mrs. Doughty said. "I fell in love with him when I first saw him. He reminded me of my child. He didn't give me any trouble at all during the trip."

"I had some money when we left Evansville and I bought what he needed along the way. He didn't cry at all . . . Was just a perfect baby."

The child is the son of Richard Duane Stammer, 20, a sailor, and Shirley Stammer, 18.

Asked how she felt, she quickly replied:

"How would you feel?"

The FBI said that Mrs. Roughly lost a child at birth in June 1953 in Chicago.

Part of Cherry's Fiscal Code Held Illegal

By WILLIAM W. HUGHES

LITTLE ROCK (UP) A portion of Gov. Francis Cherry's fiscal code, adopted as one of his principal pieces of legislation by the 1953 general assembly, was ruled unconstitutional today by the Arkansas Supreme Court.

The court held in a five opinion that a section of the law that would take printing contracts from control of the secretary of state was a violation of Sec. 15, Article 19, of the state constitution.

The opinion affirmed a lower court ruling by Pulaski Chancellor Guy E. Williams, and upheld an opinion by State Attorney General Tom Gentry.

The fiscal code would transfer to the state finance director the award of all printing contracts subject to approval of the governor, the state auditor and the state treasurer.

Under a law adopted in 1921, the contracts are awarded by the secretary of state subject to approval of the same three officials.

Secretary of State C. G. Hall received bids for printing contracts last Friday but delayed actual award of the contracts pending the Supreme Court decision.

The suit was filed by C. R. Munier of Garland County injunction to restrain Hall from making any action finance director Frank Slavy entered the case as an intervenor in behalf of the governor.

The injunction was denied by today's court action.

The majority opinion was written by Associate Justice Ed F. McFadden. It pointed out that the constitution requires contract awards to be subject to the approval of the governor and two other constitutional officials. A previous court case held that this meant the governor could have no and in the contract awards, other than to approve them. Since the finance director serves at the will of the governor and represents him, this gives the governor a direct voice in award of the contracts under the fiscal code, the opinion added.

"Ever since the early days of our Anglo-American legal system there has been the maximum what I cannot do myself, I cannot do through another," the opinion said. "No amount of judicial legend can escape the fact that the director of finance and administration acts at the director of the governor," the opinion said.

In a dissent, Chief Justice Griffin Smith wrote that details of contract awards were delegated to the general assembly and not to the courts.

"To say that the director is the agent of the governor in the ministerial matters incidental to these lettings is to assume, without evidence, and to condemn without cause, the implication is that gentlemen appointed by the executive, thereafter become his puppets and perform according to a formula fashioned for each emergency as it arises," the chief justice wrote.

$20 Bill From Missing Kidnap Money Passed

PETOSKEY, Mich. (UP) A $20 bill from the missing Greenleaf kidnap ransom was passed here last Tuesday, Chief of Police Philo Wakeford said today.

The bill here was received by Mrs. Henry J. Krauser, a part time nurse at Little Traverse Hospital who also operates a small tourist camp near here.

Wakeford said Mrs. Krauser, a widow, took the bill in last Tuesday and out of curiosity checked its serial number with the list of numbers of the missing ransom put out by federal authorities.

It matched one of the "B" series bills on the FBI list and she called the FBI in Traverse City immediately. Wakeford had no further knowledge of the $10 bill passed in Detroit, but said it was reported to him by the FBI.

Finding of the $20 ransom bill was the first public "break" in the mystery of the missing no like trying to have a conversation with one, because he can't listen. He is too busy looking around the room to see if any of his pals has a newer, lovelier cover girl."

Miss Talcott said that she had a girl who was like a hand-painted picture, but she was not a girl. When I asked whether she wasn't confusing wolves with any old dogs, she replied:

"Well, they pass for wolves, and they look like wolves. But they aren't romantic. They're dull and tired. The big danger is they will bite you to death, or you might trip and fall into their pitfall while they're yawning."

"They are all trying to impress each other, and the only other thing they have in common is they have enough money to go out on the town every night. Most of them are married, but they have a working agreement with their wives."

"They feel it's safer to be married. Then no pretty little girl can creep them up and carry them away."

Dorlan said the European wolf is more than a little girl can handle. He isn't a showoff, like the stately, no-claws-in-his-paws American prowling male.

The European is more leisurely, he said, dreamy. His conversation is one girl at a time, and doesn't go for any high-pressure, tonight-tell-me approach. He takes you to an intimate little restaurant rather than a crowded night club, because he is trying to impress you, not his business friends.

That makes the European wolf more interesting. It is like playing a word game, you enjoy figuring him out. Each has a different puzzle, and what girl doesn't like to figure out a puzzle? The puzzle is a puzzle, particularly if the puzzle is a man.

But only a wolf, a wolf, girl will avoid getting involved too deeply with any wolf.

"In dealing with a wolf, either in Europe or home," she said, "the let down is the same. A wolf is only a wolf, no matter what language he howls in."

Wounded Officer Is Awarded

WASHINGTON, (UP) — A young infantry officer who disregarded three painful wounds and led his company in a successful attack on Communist strong point in Korea was awarded the Medal of Honor today.

He is 25-year-old 1st Lt. Edward R. Schwallier, Jr., of Metairie, La. The 27th army man in the Korean war to win the nation's highest award for heroism.

While commanding a company of the 7th Infantry Division near Kimhwa, Korea in October, 1952, Schwallier was ordered to lead an attack on a Red strong point.

Although suffering bullet and grenade wounds, Schwallier refused medical aid, telling corpsmen to "take care of my men first. They need it more than I do."

With his pistol in his left hand and a sawed-off shotgun in his right, Schwallier led his men into the enemy trenches. A sudden burst of machine gun fire wounded him again, but he continued to urge his men with the words: "We have been routed from the trenches. We are evacuated under mortar fire. Keep encouraging him to fight on."

Schwallier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Schwallier, Metairie, La., graduated as an ROTC student from Virginia Military Institute in 1947. Now a regular army officer, he is presently serving at Fort Benning, Ga.

Orioles to Decide on Marion

BAT! MORE — The Baltimore

Orioles will decide today whether to keep Marty Marion as field manager or add him to the pay-for-nothing list and hire somebody else.

Art Ehlers, Orioles general manager, was to meet with Marion to discuss the situation.

If Marty goes, the situation would develop into a Hornsby to Marion to "Mr. Triple play."

Marion's contract with the old

St. Louis Browns has a year to run. The Orioles have another year to play on the old Browns' contract held by Rogers Hornsby,

Marion's predecessor.

Ehlers has said the fact Marion's contract has another year to go won't influence his decision.

"More important is that we get exactly the right man," he says.

"He could be Marion or somebody else."

Nixon Talks to Chinese Nationalists

TAIPEH, Formosa (UP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon told Chinese Nationalist Legislators today they represent "the only government which the people and government of the United States recognize as being truly representative of the Chinese people."

He told members of the central Yuan, legislative Yuan and national assembly in a joint session that the "reason for this is simple—you were chosen by the people to represent them while the government which now holds the Chinese mainland was imposed on the people by force."

Nixon received one of the biggest overtures in his visit here when thousands jammed downtown in intersections after the speech and blocked his car. He stepped out to shake a few hands and was almost swept off his feet. Police and military guards had to clear a path back to the car through cheering crowds.

Nixon conferred behind closed doors with President Chiang Kai-shek for 12 hours. He said he would confer with Chiang again in the evening.

The vice president began the day by presenting a check for $200 for veterans' relief on behalf of American Veterans of China, Burma and India during the last war.

Nixon did not give details of the conversation he had with Chiang. It was believed, however, that the talk concerned the possibility of some United States military aid to the Nationalists. Nixon said he found Chiang "intelligent, friendly and very realistic."

The vice president told Nationalist legislators they have the responsibility for making Formosa an example to the Chinese on the Red-controlled mainland of "what the people and a representative government can do."

He said he was confident that the great majority of the "common people on the mainland share

the friendship for the United States that we have found here and in other free nations."

Nixon flew Tuesday to visit air and ground military training at Hanenchu, Central Formosa.

Extremists Blamed for Trieste Riots

LONDON, (UP) — Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden charged today that extremists deliberately provoked the bloody riots in Trieste. He defended the British commander there against Italian criticism.

My reports leave no doubt that these disorders were deliberately provoked and at least partly organized from outside Zone A," Eden said in a statement in the House of Commons.

Zone A is that part of Trieste which is under American-British occupation and which the Allies have decided to turn over to Italy.

Eden implied that the formers of the riots were sent to Trieste from Italy.

"I should add that the police seem to have shown admirable discipline and restraint in face of extreme provocation," Eden said.

This was an answer to Italian and ground military training at charges that the British-trained Trieste police were to blame for bloodshed.

Eden's statement was made after a special cabinet meeting which Prime Minister Winston Churchill called on short notice.

The principal topic was Trieste, including the Italian demand that Allied military governor, be fired.

"Irresponsible elements had evidently planned to exploit certain national Italian anniversaries in order to provoke incidents in Trieste," Eden said.

The demonstrations seemed to aim at causing a breakdown of law and order and the disruption of the local security forces.

Eden said that about 3,000 persons who tried to enter Zone A from Italy in organized parties had been turned back, but that large numbers had got through despite precautions to take part in the riots.

TALK ABOUT

There has been much discussion about this motion picture. It has been praised and it has been condemned. We have seen it, and this is the way we feel about it.

It is a delightfully frank, adult comedy — and can only be appreciated by an adult audience. We therefore ask that children under 16 years of age be accompanied by their parents.

We feel privileged to bring this mature entertainment to you, and without hesitation do we recommend it as a very, very funny comedy.

Some 40,000 Arkansans Go Deer Hunting

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — More than 40,000 hunters are expected to leave Arkansas for the deer woods in the best hunting conditions in the state's history.

T. A. McAnis, executive secretary of the Game and Fish Commission, predicted that the first deer season would be "the best season we've ever had."

The second Arkansas season opens Dec. 11.

McAnis pointed out that few new areas have been opened to deer hunters, including 22,000 acres in Grant County, between Little Rock and Sheridan, opened to hunters this season for the first time in 25 years.

Other new deer hunting areas are the Black Mountain refuge in Franklin County; the Hay Creek refuge in Johnson County; the McCreary Gap refuge in Pope County; and the Lexington Creek refuge in Stone County.

McAnis said that the state needs another unit to promote ideal hunting conditions. "It's still too dry for good hunting," he said, "and say nothing of the danger of forest fires."

More than 3,000 deer were killed in Arkansas last year, McAnis said.

Norway, Canada and Sweden use more deer per capita than does the United States.

Weevils in Surprising Situation

By The Associated Press

Coach Jim Benton's surprising Arkansas A&amp;M Boll Weevils are sitting pretty.

They are perched atop the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference football standings and have two weeks to point for the Thanksgiving game with Southern State that could bring them the championship or a tie for it.

Meanwhile, the Weevils can watch from the sidelines as the College of the Ozarks and Arkansas State Teachers College try to knock each other out of a chance at part of all of the crown.

Four games from now through Thanksgiving - figure in deciding the race, one which has been unpredictable from the start.

The first one pits Teachers against Ozarks at Clarksville next Saturday.

The others are Ozarks vs. Arkansas Tech Nov. 21, the A&amp;M-Southern State duel and Teachers vs. Henderson on Thanksgiving Day.

If Teachers or Ozarks can get the rest of the way without losing a conference game, either can gain a tie with A&amp;M even if the latter beats Southern State.

A&amp;M holds the lead by virtue of a 19-7 upset of Ozarks last Saturday and because it has played one more league game than either Teachers or Ozarks. All three have lost once in A&amp;M competition.

Russell Bullock and Charles Green, a pair of backs who wouldn't be stopped, and a fired-up Weevil line proved far too much for Ozarks' Mountaineers.

The statistics showed far more clearly than the score how bawly the Weevils smothered the Mountaineers' single wing attack and choked their highly regarded defense.

With Bullock and Green leading the way, A&amp;M drove 70 and 61 yards for touchdowns the first two times it had the ball. The same two pounded the Mountaineer line repeatedly as the Weevils moved 67 yards for a clinching tally in the fourth quarter.

Ozarks' lone show of offensive prowess came in the third period when all-conference fullback Lonnie Qualls sparked a 49-yard scoring march.

The Weevils can concentrate on Southern State from now on. They have a non-conference date with Southeast Missouri State this week and an open date next week.

Henderson finally broke into the ton, where she will sail for Saseo, Japan, to join her husband TE Second Class Don Young.

ARKANSAS Sportettes

by CARL BELL

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. — Rice Saturday night was the finest football team I've ever seen.

That's what Coach Bowden Wyatt had to say today about the game that plastered his Arkansas Razorbacks 47-0 at Houston.

"They simple took us apart," he said. "I didn't think any football team in America could beat us 47 points. It was a case of a very fine team, a bigger team being fired up like this."

"Those Rice linemen blocked our boys completely out of the picture. On one play I saw one of our men knocked back 20 feet."

"Our kids tried to scramble at times but we were overwhelmed. They just ran over us."

While he had the utmost respect for the Owls, Wyatt obviously didn't think the Razorbacks were anywhere near their best.

"You can quote me as saying that apparently our football team can't stand much publicity," he said, referring to the headlines the Dorkers commanded for a week after beating Texas A&amp;M 41-14.

Rice, needing to win every week now to stay in the Southwest Conference championship race, was hot from the opening kickoff. The Owls took the opening kickoff, drove right to a touchdown and kept pouring it on. They amassed the unbelievable total of 505 yards by rushing alone.

Dick Meehle, who set up the first three tumbles and scored one himself with long runs, followed the wave of Rice blocking for 291 yards in only 35 minutes of playing time.

It didn't matter who carried the ball for the Owls. The big blue line paved the way for a gain on every play.

The defeat was the Razorbacks' 14th in a row on Texas soil. They haven't won a game in the one Star state since late in the 1948 season. They'll get their last chance this year to break the losing when they meet Southern Methodist at Dallas next Saturday.

SMU, boasting the league's finest defense, blanked A&amp;M 23-0 last Saturday and is in the thick of the title scramble.

Asked if he planned anything special for the Razorbacks in preparation for SMU, Wyatt answered: "Yes more practice."

Arkansas came out of the Rice debacle without serious injury. It is doubtful, however, that blocking back Bobby Proctor, who was left at home last week with a thigh injury, will be ready to return to the lineup before the LSU game Nov. 21.

Stability. Eric Stability Hay, Charlotte thought. For him life was logical; normal causes for things, natural effects. Usually stability bored him, but on Eric it looked good. He felt effects. Usually stability bored him, but on Eric it looked good. He felt effects.

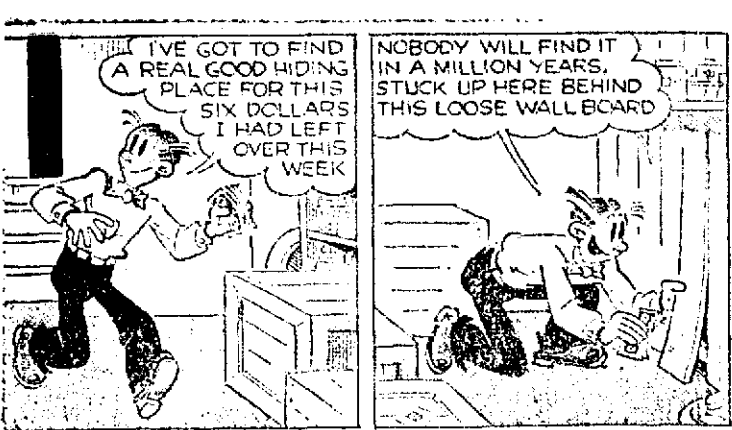

When he left, Charlotte got out her compact and made a business of powdering her nose and smoothing the black bangs. In the too-thin face, the amber eyes looked back at her, inscrutable as a cat's.

Charlotte snapped shut the compact and began to write. Nothing notable, nothing with the old Charlotte Morgan touch. Still, it was something down in black and white. A little courage and confidence surged back. Kingsley Cummings would never break her. Never.

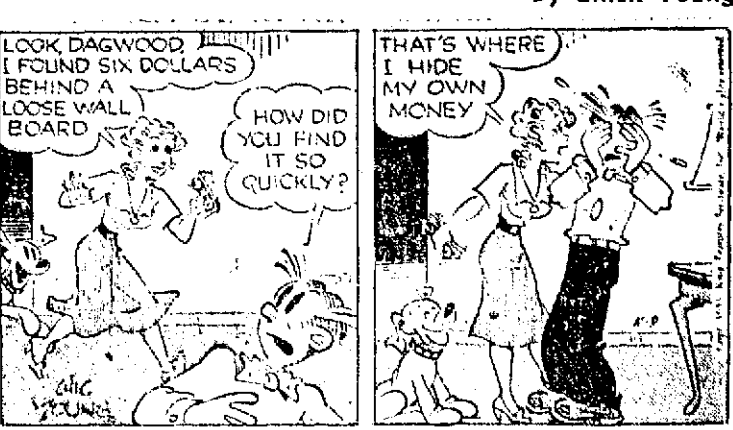

Tim tipped the page from his machine, cleared his throat and began to read aloud. "Proved . . . Approved . . . Improved - The Story of a Store. Blah, blah, blah, dot, dot, dot. Our designers flew to Paris, our buyers sailed the seas. Hey," he said, "it scans; poetry will out. Just call me Percy." He managed a grin but it faded like the Cheshire cat's. Suddenly Tim looked not so blond, not so boyish.

Cold Moscow Blast Freezes Peace Hopes

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—The cold blast from Moscow has frozen any hope that things might be different soon. In less than a year the Russians have made a full turn of the wheel. The world is where it was when Stalin died.

The Kremlin put it there by refusing to suspend Moore after he had been killed.

The controversy was settled by Circuit Judge Andy Ponder's office, when lawyers for all the principals agreed to drop the suits.

Ponder approved the petitions for dismissal.

Neal McDaniel will continue as acting police chief until a new chief is appointed.

When they finally saw it, they found it an alliance against Stalin, which was what he didn't want. But once allied, they countered it by attacking each other.

By secretarial sources Stalin might have deflected the West and Soviet Union, for a crushing blow of his new later.

Stalin did the opposite. He let his hand control for anything the West could do or become he was too all too unimpressive to think of a shift, or be arrogant to be able to control.

Korea and the trick for the West. It pulled the new Allies together in a new, tight and angry. The West fought the Communist aggression in Korea and really began to learn.

For the remaining 25 years of his life Stalin seemed incapable of a new idea while the West grew stronger. There was no dealing with him.

He left his successor, Georgi Malenkov, a genuine legacy: a West far better able to defend itself than before. Korea. At once the new Kremlin masters tried a shift.

They talked of the possibility of peace. This was sweet music to the ears of the West. Europe, weakened by two World Wars and staggering under the expense of reacting to war of a kind.

At one stroke Malenkov offered the West Disarmament. America didn't go for the Russian bait, but Europe did.

President Eisenhower said sure, and told peace with Malenkov. He said that Malenkov had been deceived by the Allies. America didn't go for the Russian bait, but Europe did.

Malenkov and French Premier Laniel, some good might come of it. Sir Winston said that he represented the West. Europe was ready for peace, peace, some-how could be judged from the response he got there.

Malenkov said nothing. It was all Russian duck soup for him if he could get the Allies scrambling—a move to themselves by mounding about peace.

But what of the man in the street, here and abroad?

All he could wonder was: do the Russians really want peace?

To answer him and to let the Russians, the Western diplomats last July proposed a foreign ministers meeting to consider world questions, including German unification and an Austrian peace treaty. The man in the street waited and wondered. West European armament slowed down.

This week the Russians, in effect, said no. Churchill's remark about his thinking about a talk with Stalin and solid like Stalin.

Malenkov and said maybe no good would come of it after all.

The Kremlin rejection could not help but knit the West closer than it has been since Stalin died.

Malenkov apparently has abandoned the peace talk tactics to stand on his own and solid like Stalin.

This is Mrs. Felicia Littlejohn. She and her husband, Horace—who works for an electronics firm—have one child, six-month-old Susan.

How Mrs. Littlejohn's telephone helps her through busy days

Did you ever keep a record of all the telephone calls you made and received for a week?

Mrs. Littlejohn is one of a group of telephone customers we asked to keep a diary of all calls made and received for one week. She was genuinely surprised at how much she depended on her telephone service.

Here are some typical calls Mrs. Littlejohn recorded. Altogether, she made and received 58 local calls in the seven days, and she estimates that they covered a total of about 345 miles. The cost? Three miles for a penny, according to Mrs. Littlejohn.

9:00 Called my next-door neighbor to see if she would watch Susan for a few minutes while I went to the store for milk.

1:00 Made dental appointment for Horace. He's too busy to call—and I'm more apt to remember date and time. 2 miles.

3:30 Dottie, a friend, called to thank me for the housewarming I gave for her Sunday. It turned out so well. 10 miles.

12:00 My husband's daily call which I always look forward to. I told him all was well at home. 12 miles.

1:30 Called cleaner's to see if our clothes were ready. I save trips this way—and to me that's important. 2 miles.

7:30 Horace's Dad cut himself trimming the hedge. Called to tell us he's back from the doctor's and O. K. 6 miles.
